MemoryCare — Founder Q&A for Designers

Combined: (1) answers to a new designer candidate's Visual Identity Brief, and (2) the translated original Design Brief answers given to the previous designer.

Compiled August 14, 2026

This document combines two separate sets of founder answers, kept together for reference:

- Part 1 — answers to a new designer candidate's Visual Identity Brief questionnaire (10 questions), answered 14.08.2026.
- Part 2 — the English translation of the original Design Brief answers (33 questions across 7 sections) that the founders filled out in Armenian on 06.08.2026 for the previous designer.

Part 2 is the historical record — some of it has since evolved (for example, the product lineup grew from 3 tariffs to 4 with the addition of “ՉԼՆՆԼՄ,” and the language count was fixed at 3, not left open). Where Part 1 or the rest of this brief package (files 00–06) differs from Part 2, the newer answer wins.

Part 1 — Answers to the Visual Identity Brief

1. What kind of feeling do you want the MemoryCare brand to communicate visually?

Primarily trust, care, and quiet respect. Calm and professionalism matter as much as warmth — we want people to feel reassured and taken seriously, not comforted in a soft/sentimental way. Think “a professional you can hand your most personal responsibility to,” not “a grief-support brand.”

2. Regarding the logo reference you shared, what do you like about it specifically?

The symbolism and meaning, more than the execution. It reads as three layers nested in one another: the forget-me-not (memory), the Armenian symbol of eternity (identity/national context), and two open hands (care). We also like the soft, linear graphic style and the light tonality — it deliberately avoids a funeral aesthetic. We're open to a different visual execution of that same meaning if you have a stronger idea, as long as the three-layer concept and the light, non-somber feeling are preserved.

3. What kind of visual style do you have in mind for the brand?

Light, premium minimalism: minimal, clean, elegant, warm but restrained. “Premium” matters — the service costs a meaningful annual amount, and the visual language needs to justify that. Deliberately not heavily emotional or sentimental, and not cold/corporate either.

4. Are there any specific colors, fonts, symbols, or visual elements you would like to use or avoid?

Colors (a starting direction, not locked): olive green `#5E6A3A` (hover `#7C8654`), anthracite `#33373C` / `#6B7075`, warm off-white `#FAFAF7`. Open to a different palette if you can justify it.

Fonts: no typeface chosen yet — your call — but it must fully support Armenian, Latin, and Cyrillic script in one coherent pairing.

Symbol: as above — forget-me-not, Armenian eternity symbol, two hands.

To avoid explicitly: funeral clichés (dominant black, crosses, gothic lettering, candles), guilt-pressure messaging, excessive sentimentality, cold corporate style, cheap stock imagery, loud discount/sale-style elements.

5. For the website, which specific visuals do you need?

- A hero section built around visual proof — a sample before/after report (photo pair + GPS/date marker) should be visible on the first screen, not buried further down.
- A pricing section — 4 tiered cards, with our one-off “inspection” product visually set apart from the three subscription tiers.
- A dedicated report template/screen — this is our actual product, it needs real visual weight, not a small supporting graphic.
- Client cabinet screens — report history, visit status, plan management, and our “Family Circle” feature (a subscriber can invite relatives, who get their own access to reports).
- Icons/illustrations for a simple “how it works” flow (subscribe → visits → photo/video/GPS report).
- Trust-building visuals (verification, regularity, transparency) aimed at a general audience, not narrowly diaspora-coded.

6. Do you also need social media and advertising visuals?

Yes. Platforms: Instagram and Facebook primarily (that’s where our diaspora audience is), plus creative for Google Search ads. Types needed: before/after case posts, testimonial posts, seasonal posts (we have five recurring occasions on the Armenian calendar), and a “Family Circle” invitation post. We don’t have a fixed number of designs decided yet — happy to scope that together once we agree on templates.

7. Are there any brands, websites, or visual references you like?

tending.app (closest direct competitor by category, calm tone), headspace.com (calm without funeral overtones), stripe.com (clean, trustworthy, especially around payment), airbnb.com (card-based, photo-first layout approach).

8. How would you like the brand to look compared to competitors?

Compared to local competitors in Armenia (unbranded individual contractors with no reporting or guarantees), we want to look organized, professional, and trustworthy — the first real brand in this category here. Compared to the handful of similar services abroad (US, Germany, Poland, Ukraine), we want to look more complete and more premium — none of them combine photo + video + GPS + a client cabinet + family access the way we do, and the visual identity should make that completeness feel obvious rather than needing to be explained.

9. What is your deadline for the first set of designs, and when do you need the full project completed?

Our development team is already mid-way through its build window, so the report template, pricing page, and client-cabinet screens are the priority and are needed as soon as possible — realistically within the first couple of weeks. Full project completion has previously been targeted at around one month total. (Exact calendar dates to be confirmed by the founders — not yet fixed as of this writing.)

10. What is your budget range for this project?

Our reference point from a previous scope (logo, brand book, report template, site mockups, uniform, vehicle wrap, and social templates) was 1,000,000 AMD. That's a starting reference, not a fixed ceiling — open to discussing scope and price together based on what you propose.

1. Company and mission

01. About the company and its history. MemoryCare is a Yerevan-based company, founded in 2026. The idea was born from a simple observation: hundreds of thousands of Armenians live far from their family memorial plots and carry a quiet sense of guilt, while those living in Yerevan don't always have the time either. We are the first professional subscription service in Armenia for the care of family memorial plots, with a photo/video report for every visit. The company is registered, the memorycare.am domain is purchased, the platform is in development; launch follows once the website is ready.

02. The project's core mission. To give people peace of mind — that their family's memorial plots are cared for and surrounded by care, even when they can't be there themselves. We sell not just cleaning, but confirmed care: every visit is proven with photo, video, and GPS.

03. Priority services. Annual subscriptions: "Optimal Care" (6 visits, 180,000 AMD), "Maximum Care" (12 visits, 240,000 AMD), "Express Care" (1 visit, 60,000 AMD). In our view, Optimal will be the best-selling package. The "Express Care" amount is fully credited toward the annual subscription if purchased within 60 days. If the customer doesn't move to an annual subscription within 60 days of ordering "Express," a repeat use of the "Express" package within that same year is priced at 40,000 AMD. An important platform feature is the "Family Circle": the customer invites relatives, who can see the reports and order one-off services.

Note (14.08.2026): superseded by the current lineup — see 03-Product-and-Site.md . There are now 4 tiers (an “Inspection” tier, “20լնլլլ,” was added), and “Maximum” is 9 visits/year, not 12.

04. Competitive advantage. Care for family memorial plots in Armenia is an informal market — no brand, no regularity, no reporting. We are the first organized brand: subscription + photo + video + GPS + personal page + “Family Circle.” This complete package isn’t matched even by global analogs (Tending in the US, Grabpflege in Germany).

05. Why people choose us. Because we remove the main fear — “I’ll pay, but will they actually do it?” Every visit is confirmed with before/after photos, video, and GPS on the personal page. Plus: a professional team and equipment, clear pricing with no hidden terms, respect for the family memorial plot.

2. Target audience

06. Our core customer. Two portraits. (1) Primary: Armenian diaspora, 35–60 years old, living in the US/France/Russia/Europe, established, with a family; their parents’ or grandparents’ family memorial plot is in Yerevan; they visit once a year or less often; driver — a sense of duty and guilt over distance. (2) A Yerevan resident, 40–60 years old, above-average income, busy; driver — lack of time and a desire for predictable quality.

07. Geography. US (Los Angeles/Glendale, New York, Boston), France (Paris, Marseille), Russia (Moscow), Germany and other European countries + Yerevan.

08. What problem are we solving? People want to, but can’t regularly care for their family memorial plots — some are far away, some don’t have time. The result is a feeling of guilt and anxiety, and many don’t even know what condition their relative’s memorial plot is in right now. We solve both: we care for it regularly, and after every visit we show the actual condition.

3. Brand identity

09. What feeling should the site evoke? Calm, trust, and solidity: “these are professionals you can trust with the most personal thing.” Bright, warm, dignified, solid. Not mourning and not sadness — care and attentiveness. The person should breathe out, not tense up.

10. The brand as a person (3–5 words). Reliable · caring · reserved · professional · respectful. The character — a grown child in the family, entrusted with what matters most.

11. Core values. Four simple values: (1) proven care — we show what we did, not just promise it; (2) regularity — care is periodic, not a one-off; (3) honesty — clear prices, clear terms; (4) respect — for both the memory and the family. Tagline: “Honoring Memory, Caring for Loved Ones.”

12. Mandatory visual features. We have logo references (see section 4), but regardless of them, the designer may also propose a completely different solution. There are no other mandatory requirements.

4. Logo and visual style

13. What do we like about the current logo? The symbolism and meaning: three layers — forget-me-not (memory), Armenian symbol of eternity (identity), two hands (care). The soft linear graphics, the bright tonality, not a funeral aesthetic.

14. What would we like to improve? Right now we have reference sketches. We need: clean vector execution, balanced detail (legibility at small sizes — favicon, uniform badge), variants for light/dark backgrounds and monochrome. We allow simplifying details for scalability.

15. Are we ready for a full transformation? Yes, if the designer justifies that it's necessary or substantially beneficial for the business. We're open to new ideas.

16. Mandatory elements to preserve. The designer is free in everything. The only preserved and non-negotiable point is the name — MemoryCare.

17. Mandatory colors/fonts. The current palette is preferred — olive green #5E6A3A (hover #7C8654), anthracite #33373C/#6B7075, warm white #FAFAF7 — but not mandatory: if the designer proposes a better option for the business, that's acceptable. Key criterion: easy readability. Fonts — designer's choice; requirement: full support for Armenian, Latin, and Cyrillic.

5. Website goals and design

18. What's unsatisfying about the current site? The current site is a temporary landing page: empty placeholders instead of real photos and contacts, no personal page and no payment, no before/after cases, the visual doesn't reach the price's premium level, weak mobile version.

19. Pages requiring the most attention. (1) Home — trust within 5 seconds; (2) pricing — with a currency calculator and solid emphasis on the leading package; (3) report page/screen — what the thing they're paying for actually looks like (this is the product); (4) "How it works"; (5) personal page and "Family Circle."

20. New sections/features. Personal page with photo/video/GPS reports · online payment with international cards · "Family Circle" (invite relatives, order one-off services) · before/after case gallery · "Express Care" credit mechanic · 3 languages (ARM/ENG/RUS).

21. What can be removed/simplified? We'll discuss this with the designer during the work, based on their suggestions.

22. The site's main goal. Lead generation. Since the subscription amount isn't small and the service is annual, it's right to start with a free consultation request and contact; then sales. Online payment remains available for customers who are ready.

23. Overall style. Light premium minimalism: an organic bright theme, lots of air, large typography, restrained elegance (editorial), real photos instead of stock, gentle animations. Premium, but warm.

24. References. tending.app (a direct analog — calm tone, category) · headspace.com (calm without mourning) · stripe.com (cleanliness and trust around payments) · airbnb.com (card-based, photo-first approach).

25. What to avoid. Funeral clichés (dominant black, crosses, gothic lettering, candles), guilt-pressure, excessive sentimentality, cold corporate style, cheap stock, noisy discount elements.

6. Content and materials

26. The texts. Will be updated for the new design; the foundation is ready and we'll provide it. If necessary, we're also ready to change the texts entirely to match a new structure.

27. New photo/media. Yes — a professional shoot is planned (drone + camera, budget allocated): the team in uniform, the work process, before/after cases from the September pilot.

28. Do we currently have professional photos? No — until the shoot, the designer works with clean, temporary placeholders.

29. What materials will we provide? Everything we have: reference photos of the logo symbols, the color palette with hex codes, the tagline and its translations, the site texts in 3 languages, the tariffs and service descriptions, the platform's functional requirements (for coordination with the developers). There's no brand book yet — the designer creates it themselves (as part of the contract).

7. Interaction and success criteria

30. Main call to action (CTA). Since the subscription amount is significant and the service is annual, the primary CTA is a free consultation request and contact with us (name + phone/WhatsApp), not a direct purchase. Secondary CTA: "Choose a package" for customers who are already ready, with online payment.

31. The first 5 seconds. Understand: "professional care for family memorial plots in Armenia, with photo/video proof of every visit." Feel: calm and trust. Visual solution: a before/after report example right on the first screen.

32. Measurable success KPIs. Visitor → lead conversion $\geq 3\%$ · lead → payment conversion $\geq 40\%$ · 90+ paying customers within 16 weeks of launch · customer acquisition cost (CAC) $\leq 25,000$ AMD · mobile load time < 3 sec · mobile conversion $\geq$ desktop.

33. Timelines and constraints. Timeline — ~1 month, per contract. Important: developers are building the platform in parallel (~45 days); mockups of the key screens are needed by them sooner than the full brand book. Mobile-first is mandatory (the diaspora comes in from their phones). Fonts must support Armenian/Latin/Cyrillic. Delivery of source files (Figma/AI) is a condition of acceptance.
